

Challenge Problem 4

A cylindrical drum of radius R rolls down a slope without slipping. Its center has velocity v and acceleration a parallel to the slope. What are the drum's angular velocity ω and angular acceleration α in terms of v and a ? Justify your answer mathematically.

Note. Angular velocity is the number of radians the drum goes around each second, and angular acceleration is the rate of change of angular velocity.