Challenge Problem 22

A cylinder of mass M and radius R is rotated in a uniform V-shaped groove with constant angular velocity ω. The coefficient of kinetic friction between the cylinder and each surface is μ_k. What is the magnitude and direction of the torque that must be applied to the cylinder to keep it rotating at that angular velocity?